Virginia Is For Theatre Organ Lovers! Join Us!

With many great instruments across the Commonwealth, Virginia is for theatre organ lovers! A number of individuals gather for performances and to exchange ideas but the former theatre organ groups in Virginia have become inactive. We're going to change that!

The Old Dominion Theatre Organ Society (ODTOS) is a new state-wide group with the objective of bringing together Virginians who share an interest in preserving, promoting, and enjoying theatre organs. Once sufficient membership is attained, an organizational meeting will be scheduled to elect officers and begin the process of affiliating with the American Theatre Organ Society (ATOS).

The first 15 non-ATOS members to join us will be mailed a recent copy of the excellent ATOS bi-monthly journal, Theatre Organ. ATOS members will be recognized as charter members of ODTOS.

Won't you consider joining us? There is no cost or obligation. Because of our wide geographic area, there will be few formal meetings. However, our web site and email newsletter will keep you informed about what's happening with theatre organs and performances in Virginia and surrounding states.
